"But we still hope to complete most of our major projects that are scheduled to be open to traffic by the end of the year," Hill said. "We got a favorable weather for the next 30 days, we can still make the original completion dates."

Two Survivors Critical

Range Rocket Blast Fatal To Collector

Two survivors of a bazooka blast at a firing range at Camp Grayling last Friday afternoon continued their fight for life at the Grayling Mercy Hospital today. Their condition still remains critical but hospital spokesmen felt they would win their battle.

They are: Leo Sokolowski, 21, of Muskegon and Douglas Cowles, 4, also of Muskegon whose father, Wayne Cowles, 30, was the victim in the fatal explosion.

The two men and the youngster were scavenging for metal and metal scraps on the range. It was understood that the same men last year picked up scrap metal at the range while in the vicinity, looking for a good spot for deer hunting later in November. When they returned to Muskegon, they sold the scrap for enough to finance the hunting trip.

The Crawford County Board of Supervisors in their regular October session levied a total tax in the county for 1962 of $231,814.28. This is in contrast to $254,737.80 in 1961. The tax levied for 1962 is based on a county valuation of over $9,300,000.00 as equalized by the Board. This brings the county valuation in balance with the state equalized valuation for Crawford County.

What's The Future Of Seat Belts?

F. C. Welsh, The American Medical Association, whose members have the job of patching up the victims of car crashes, estimates that 10,000 lives could be saved each year from the 40,000-odd highway fatalities if the victims had been using belts.

No less an authority than the California State highway patrol believes that serious and fatal injuries in 1,500,000 road accidents last year could have been cut by 33%. All California and New York state vehicles are now equipped with belts.

Evidence that the public is ignoring the advice of safety authorities is the fact that seat belts are sold on only about 2% of automobiles delivered to the public with about one third of these not being used after they have been installed.

Perhaps one reason for the apathy is that the public thinks the belts are designed for high speed only. Statistics show otherwise—that the belts save lives in low speed collisions. An end-over-end at 80 miles per hour is likely to be fatal no matter how well you're belted in. But a 5 to 15 mile-per-hour interaction crash can kill you too if your head collides with the dash panel, windshield or the pavement.

Any day you're convinced, we'll be happy to install belts in your car promptly.

MICHIGAN'S UPPER PENINSULA FAR FROM DOWN AND OUT

MICHIGAN'S NORTHERN peninsula, despite all the talk about its "depressed area" and "chronic unemployment," is far from down and out.

There are five good reasons why it would be a tragic mistake to write off the area above the Straits of Mackinac as a kind of economic wasteland to be abandoned to a life based to a large degree on governmental rejuvenation programs.

They are tourist trade, mining, farming, forestry and industry.

It would be equally foolish, of course, to refuse to recognize the ills that have come to the upper peninsula largely as a result of less demand for the products of its mines and forests and from the emigration of people to the south.

The "proper" view, especially for Michigan citizens who make their homes in the lower peninsula, seems to be that the lovely land up north is something like a post-depression financier.

Things may be a little tough economically right now, but the ability to prosper has not been lost by the current situation.

The decline of mining, a lag in forest-related occupations, the failure of the sports industry with advancing technology in a host of fields; and the serious blow dealt by the lamprey-aid to a profitable fishing industry have hurt the upper peninsula.

But there are two facts about the area which must be recognized.

First, the great fields of endeavor which brought fabulous wealth to the upper peninsula in the past are not dead. They can be brought back. While mining, forestry, fishing and the like have slipped, they still account for a substantial income. Second, there is opportunity for virtually unlimited growth in new areas with farming and tourism most likely to "arrive" as money makers in the near future.

With a push from the government and help from research and technology in many fields, the upper peninsula's future never looked brighter.

For example, the region's $25 million a year tourist business is estimated to be only half its potential.

Farming never did reach the heights of which it is capable in the land above the Straits. New horizons in wood products and related fields, coupled with bringing back mining and abundant water and power for industry are a few further reasons for faith and confidence in the upper peninsula.

One whole thing adds up to this: Don't sell Michigan's "northern frontier" short.

A SUBJECT FOR speculation by state revenue officials recently was how much the 1 per cent sales tax, which replaced the earlier 3 per cent levy on January 1st of this year, hurt the sale of new automobiles in Michigan.

Revenue Clearance Lock reports that income from automobile sales taxes has dropped considerably in the last few months.

Lock says lower per-unit collection, because of the lower price of compact cars, has something to do with it.

However, some dealers still insist that the higher tax has hurt their sales. He says, "This particular point is open to conjecture. Lock says, but there is no doubt that the income from sales taxes on autos is down.

The auto sales tax picture, which incidentally ought to improve when labor and management work out their differences on contracts in the industry, and when new models start selling briskly, fits into Michigan's overall revenue picture.

This year, total income is being watched more closely than ever by legislators and the administration because of different estimates used in thrashing out the budget for the fiscal year.

Unless income hits the exact mid-point between Gov. John B. Swanson's revenue estimate of $477.9 million and that used by the legislature, $466 million, somebody will say "I told you so" from one end of the state to the other.

If revenue for the 1961-62 fiscal year does hit the mid-point, lawmakers and the administration will both say "I told you so."

A CURIOUS RELATIONSHIP between federal government regulations and state law means that trucks in interstate commerce, when used on Michigan trunklines must have amber turn signals.

Attorney General Paul L. Adams recently came to this conclusion in an opinion written for State Police Commissioner Joseph A.

By C. A. DEAN, M.D.
MEDITATORIAL: Two recent letters on the subject of recurrent boils prompted today's meditative. One, from Mrs. A. B., asks why her 10-year-old girl has boils on different parts of her body and whether eating chocolate would have any effect. The other, from Mr. D.S., inquires about recurring boils over several years and whether nerves might be a cause.

To begin with, the treatment and prevention of recurring boils is difficult. Almost everyone develops an occasional large pimple or boil, but to develop repeated attacks of several large boils at different places on the body can be quite annoying indeed.

An underlying cause should be looked for in each individual who has this problem. Abnormalities such as diabetes, obesity, poor nutrition, excess perspiration, frequent use of medicines containing iodine and exposure to chemicals or other skin irritants on or off the job, all should be considered as possible contributing causes. Unfortunately, recurrent boils often occur in the absence of apparent predisposing factors. Individuals may be in perfect health except for the boils. It is not uncommon for people engaged in rough sports (football and wrestling) to be afflicted with them.

Cleanliness is most important in the treatment. Careful removal of drainage material is necessary to prevent the formation of new boils around the original one. Cleansing the surrounding areas with 70 percent alcohol is advised, as is the use of a soap containing hexachlorophene for general washing purposes. Antibiotic ointments probably do not help the boil very much but help to prevent spreading. Frequent or continuous application of hot packs followed by incision and drainage are always strongly recommended.

Mrs. Melvin Vallad returned from Traverse City Monday of last week, after having undergone surgery at the hospital there. Mrs. Vallad brought us the following story, entitled "The Difference Between a Cat and a Rat". "This may not be known to a great many people, but there is a vast difference between the two aforementioned animals, as this tale will prove. After seeing a rat helping himself (or herself) to some grains of chicken feed that were left in a mixing pail, my husband decided that his rat's visits must come to a screeching halt. With this in mind, he set a steel trap inside the mixing pail, and the family left for a visit with friends. Upon returning we could see by the yard light the pail moving, as if possessed by an unseen force. "It is a little kitten" quoth my good man, the children and I meantime getting out of the car. "THE POOR THING" unisoned three female voices. "Sh-h-h" the man of the house whispered, "Go around the house, get the kitten, and bring it to me." He also came to the yard with to get a 22 to put this poor thing out of its misery. On shot would be sufficient, two to be sure. Immediately the first shot rang out, however, the poor thing set up its own defense, of an unmistakable odor. Therefore friends, the difference between a cat and a rat is a distinctive white stripe and an awfully distinctive odor."

He came here to question early residents of the county concerning this.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Ray Snider have left for their winter quarters at Sebring, Florida, planning to visit their son and daughter and families on the way down.

School Board Minutes . . .

In this issue, the Avalanche brings the first printing of the minutes of the regular and special meetings of the Grayling School Board. At their last regular meeting it was decided to publish the minutes for a year's period on a trial basis. We believe it was a wise decision.

The citizens of the school district find it impossible to attend these meetings with any regularity but are interested in the problems and successes of the Board. A reading of the minutes as they are published will keep every citizen abreast of developments at the school.

If you enjoy these minutes and find them informative and useful to you, would you please tell a member of the board so. They are: President, Dr. B. E. Henig, secretary, William Joseph; treasurer, James Baker; trustees, Mervyn Nielson, Jerome Kessler, LeRoy Millikin and Eva Strong.

On the other hand, if you feel that the minutes being published are of no value and a waste of funds, you should so indicate to one of the above named members. — R. W. S.

The Way Back . . .

Newburgh, New York may find a niche in history as one of the first American communities to revolt against the welfare state. Community leaders of Newburgh decided that people should no longer be asked to support chiselers. They are not against assistance where needed. But they know that this is in no way related to the political game of welfareism that is bankrupting the country.

Italy, Texas suffered a disastrous tornado last spring. Immediately, federal officials offered to help establish Italy as a disaster area and secure federal assistance. The City Council of Italy wired thanks and said, "Feel federal treasury in worse shape than Italy and suggest any allocation set up for Italy be applied to national debt."

What happened? Italy has recovered. The local paper has been deluged with congratulatory messages directed to all of the people of Italy. Typical were the following:

If Americans were anxious to provide for their own security rather than expecting Uncle Sam to take care of them, socialism-communism wouldn't have a chance.

From New York: "After so many years of brainwashing that there is nothing ignoble about accepting public handouts. . . I can only conclude that there must be something in the water that you folks drink down there."

Newburgh, New York and Italy, Texas have pointed the way back to an indomitable America. The big question is, will other communities follow their lead?

Letters To The Editor

U. S. S. HANCOCK
c/o Fleet Post Office
San Francisco, California

Mr. Strong, Editor
Crawford Co. Avalanche
Grayling, Michigan

Dear Mr. Strong:
In September of this year Seaman (E-3) Paul Johnson of Grayling took the advancement in rate exam for Personnelmen 3rd Class Petty Officer.

The results of the exams were received Saturday, October 7th, via letter, from the Naval Examining Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Of the 10 candidates to whom the exam was administered, Paul was one of the 7 personnel who passed the exam. Of the 7 who passed he was one of the 3 selected to be advanced to "3rd Class."

Passing the exam does not automatically guarantee advancement to E-4. Personnel selected to be advanced are judged, mainly, on their quarterly marks covering Military Appearance, Leadership and Supervisory Ability, Adaptability, Professional Performance and Military Behavior.

Marks are based much the same as High School and College grades, and personnel with the higher marks are those most likely to be selected for advancement.

Paul will be advanced as of 16 November 1961. Thus being, he will be second-in-command of the enlisted personnel of the Information & Education Office on board the USS HANCOCK (CV-19).

Very truly yours,
Bob Jones, JO2
